Tape Bares Conflicting Testimony

Mrs. Deadwyler's Lawyer Attempts to Bar Recording
By LARRY LYNCH
L. P. M. W. W.

A police tape recording was introduced as evidence in the coroner's inquest into the death of Leonard Deadwyler today despite the objections of the attorney for Deadwyler's widow, Barbara.

The recording of a statement by Gamalyel Ferguson—who was in the car when Deadwyler was shot by a police officer—contains passages that conflict with testimony offered Tuesday by Mrs. Deadwyler.

JOHNIE L. COCHRAN, attorney for both Mrs. Deadwyler and Ferguson, appeared at one point during the hearing to have blocked introduction of the tape, at least temporarily.

Ferguson was on the stand when the inquest, in the main county courthouse in Los Angeles recessed Tuesday. He was recalled to the stand at 10 a.m. today in the fifth day of the hearings.

The tape was introduced and transcripts given to the jury.

THE TAPE OPENED with Los Angeles Del. Sgt. Don Petrovich identifying himself as the interrogating officer and advising Ferguson of his constitutional rights.

Then Petrovich asked Ferguson if he remembered a telephone conversation the day before in which Petrovich said Ferguson told him he was

VICTORY HUG
Robert Duncan grabs Penni Widmer, 18, at his hotel headquarters at Portland, Ore., after learning he had captured the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate over Howard Morgan. He will oppose Gov. Mark Hatfield in November.

War Critic Fails in Primary Race

Robert B. Duncan, strong backer of Johnson administration Viet Nam war policies, won Oregon's Democratic senatorial nomination going away in a primary contest where the conflict was the sole major issue.

But the lopsided count for Duncan over peace candidate Howard Morgan failed to muffle opposition talk of voters' uneasiness about the Asian war.

In the general election Duncan faces Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, also a critic of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia, who likewise won Senate nomination by a wide margin. The Senate seat is now held by retiring Maurice Neuberger.

SEN. WAYNE Morse, Oregon Democrat and probably the most vocal opponent of that policy, saw the outcome as a portent of victory for his views.

Morse said the incomplete count of the combined vote of Republicans and Democrats "indicates strongly that the Johnson administration will be repudiated on the Viet Nam war issue by a substantial margin."

According to reports reaching London, Kampala is cut off by road and rail from the rest of the country by armed tribesmen. The rail link with Entebbe, not far from Kampala, was reported cut and all roads unsafe.

The raid by Ugandan police Tuesday climaxed a long-standing power struggle between the king and president, Dr. Milton Obote, dating back to Uganda's independence in 1962.

King Freddie, as he was nicknamed when serving as a grenadier guards officer in the British army, became the first president of Uganda after it received its independence from Britain. He was ousted in February by Obote.

Kid Kidding? His Bank Stickup Note Not Funny
"This is a stickup," the note read.
"You're kidding," said Bank of America teller Katherine Wallace to its writer.
"No, I'm not. Give me all your thousand dollar bills."
"I don't have any," Mrs. Wallace replied.
"Then give me all your $500 bills."
"I don't have any of those either," she replied.
The would-be bandit then turned and ran from the bank at 200 N. Pacific Ave., Redondo Beach. He fled with a companion who was waiting outside.
Bank employes chased the suspect and caught him and his companion two blocks away about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.
Juvenile Sgt. Floyd Schrader hooked the pair, a 13-year-old boy from South Gate and his 14-year-old pal from Lynwood, on suspicion of robbery.
"I was only joking," the 13-year-old boy said.
"Bad joke," said Sgt. Schrader, who remanded the boys to county juvenile hall to await a hearing on the charge.

16 Arrested in Trans-U.S. Gaming Quiz

Nine From L.A. Area; Avoidance of Phone Tolls Also Charged

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI agents arrested 16 men, nine of them from the Los Angeles area, and sought four more today in a nationwide crackdown on interstate telephone transmission of gambling information.

Director J. Edgar Hoover said the men, seized in nine states from coast to coast, used an electronic device, known as a "blue box" to avoid billing for long distance telephone calls.

They thus avoided one of the check points of law enforcement officers keeping tabs on gambling—extensive long distance telephone bills.

FBI COMPLAINTS charged the men with violating federal laws against interstate transmission of wagering information and fraud by wire.

Hoover said an "extensive and detailed investigation by FBI agents throughout the United States" led to the arrests in New York, Maryland, Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, Florida, Texas, California and New Jersey.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach described the arrests as Seven Long Beach State College fraternities have lost their legal battle to remain in residential areas.

Superior Court Judge Walter H. Odemar Tuesday granted the City of Long Beach a permanent injunction against the fraternities maintaining houses in R4 areas.

The ousted fraternities are Kappa Sigma, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Zeta Beta Tau, Phi Kappa Tau and Sigma Pi.

ATTORNEY Richard Cantrell, representing Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Kappa Tau, said he was considering an appeal in the case, and added "It's a shame that the City of Long Beach donates a million dollars worth of land on which to build a fine college, then turns around and prevents students at the college from living in the residential areas of the city."

Judge Odemar said he agreed with the city's contention that the fraternities had been in violation of the zoning code since Nov. 17, 1964.

The city suit was filed Dec. 11, 1964, by Robert G. Austin of the city's attorney's office, and described the fraternities as "public nuisances."

SLASHER HITS AGAIN; NINE HORSES MAIMED

School-Bound Boy Seized at Bus Stop; Kidnaper Slain After Child Freed in Woods

BRISTOL, Conn. (AP)—A man grabbed a school-bound 6-year-old boy from a bus stop today after other children had eluded him, held the child for about three hours and then was killed by a posse of officers.

While encircled in a wooded area, the man wounded a policeman.

He was finally shot several times after surrendering the boy in a swap for a quart of water.

The youngster, Michael Albee, apparently suffered no ill effects from his ordeal.

His father, Donald Albee, said the brown-haired first grader was not crying when he was freed.

An hour later, he was at the family's home in nearby Terryville, chewing bubble gum and playing with his baseball cards.

POLICE SAID the abductor, Albert Rynn, a 33-year-old water company employe, was apparently deranged.

Michael's mother said her son was snatched up by Rynn as he waited with other children for the school bus, seven doors from the Albee home.

"He tried to pick up two girls first," she said, but they saw him and ran. But then he went for Michael, who had his back to him."

The father said Michael quoted Rynn as saying, "Let's go for a ride. It won't be a long one."

Rynn drove to a country road on the outskirts of this industrial city and stopped first at a home before leading Michael into the woods, his father said.

STATE POLICE and officers from several town and city departments arrived soon after. They knew Rynn was the man they were after, they said.

TWO OTHER horses were slashed at the Frisbee Horseriders Stables, 22509 S. Vermont Ave., Carson, and another horse was gashed at a stable on Hamilton Street between Torrance Boulevard and Knox Street in the Dominguez area.

One of the horses slashed at the Dominguez stables was an Arabian show horse valued in excess of $10,000. He had been ripped down the jaw. The owner Floyd Priest, said he had refused a $10,000 offer for the horse three months ago.

OF THE SIX horses slashed at the Dominguez club, the worst wound inflicted was a 15-inch cut, two inches deep, on one horse. The other cuts were about 10 inches long. Owners of the animals were identified as Al Davis, 60, Inglewood; Sharon Katz, 30, Los Angeles, and Dorothy McNamee, 45, of 1830 Van Trask Ave., Wilmington.

A light palomino and a dark roan horse were slashed at the Frisbee stables. One was owned by Richard Frisbee, and the other by Stan Elmore.

THE BROWN mare slashed at the third stable was valued at $200 by the owner, John Winkler of Hawthorne.

A $3,000 reward was offered after the 17 horses were slashed in mid-March.

At that time, deputies said two persons might have been involved.

In one series of cuttings, the wounds were deep and long with clean edges—inflicted, deputies said, by a sharp weapon.

In another series of slashings, in the Long Beach-Rolling Hills area, 12 horses were cut, but not so deeply and apparently by a duller weapon which did not cut as cleanly.

London Bandits Grab $274,000
LONDON (AP)—Two men armed with double-barrelled shotguns seized an armored security express truck and escaped with 98,000 pounds ($274,400).

The robbers locked the lone guard in the truck's security department. The other two security guards were delivering cash at the time to a bank in the busy Bayswater section of London.

The armored car later was found with its load of cash bags missing. The guard, Walter Lee, 37, was discovered locked inside.

Assailant Visits Riding Clubs at Dominguez, Carson

Nine horses, including a prize Arabian show horse, were slashed during the night in the Carson and Dominguez areas, possibly by the same assailant or assailants who mutilated 17 horses in mid-March.

Long, deep cuts were inflicted on the necks of six horses stabled at the Dominguez Riding Club, 15900 S. Main St., Dominguez.

intoxicated on the day of the shooting.

Ferguson's voice on the tape replied, "Yes, I was."

Cochran jumped up from his seat and grabbed Deputy Dist. Atty. John Provenzano by the sleeve. Provenzano, who, through a mutual and unusual arrangement, has addressed Cochran's questions to the witness, said:

"IF IT WOULD please the court, I would like to have the tape stopped."

Cochran and Provenzano went into conference with hearing officer Charles Langhauser.

During the six minute conference the jury continued to read the transcript.

After the conference, Cochran made a formal objection on the grounds playing of the tape would violate Ferguson's constitutional rights in the event Ferguson was subsequently ordered to trial.

"I will discontinue playing of the tape at this time, but I will not state that it will not be played at a later time during the hearing," Langhauser replied.

TESTIMONY THEN switched to an experiment Ferguson said he conducted with the death car. He said he tried to see if he or anyone else could reach the ignition key through the open window on the passenger side of the car.

Provenzano, placing question's posed by Cochran asked Ferguson, who said he is five-feet nine-inches tall, "Could you do it?"

"No," Ferguson replied.

"Did you have someone else who was taller try?" Provenzano asked.

"Yes," Ferguson said.

"How tall?" Provenzano asked.

"Six-feet, one-inch," Ferguson replied.

"Could he reach it?" Provenzano asked.

"No," Ferguson said.

was recalled to the stand and Langhauser ordered the disputed tape played.

For three hours Tuesday Mrs. Deadwyler, 25, dressed in a black-and-white-striped maternity smock and generally composed, spelled out her version in consistent detail.

The minute she stepped down, however, Deputy Dist. Atty. John Provenzano called to the stand a policewoman who contradicted some details of the widow's story.

NEXT, Provenzano drew from Ferguson, testimony that seriously countered Mrs. Deadwyler's story.

Tuesday, as the fourth day of hearings drew to a close, Ferguson contradicted Mrs. Deadwyler about whether the Deadwyler car, shortly before police halted it, was passed by a fire engine, siren wailing.

FERGUSON, who owned the car Deadwyler was driving said he had asked Deadwyler to drive "because I became pretty nervous" when Mrs. Deadwyler complained of labor pains during what he called "an outing." Mrs. Deadwyler testified the car was headed to County General Hospital because of her pains.

On the way to the hospital, Ferguson said, "I was just excited about the way Deadwyler changed lanes back and forth. (And Mrs. Deadwyler... frightened me. She didn't say anything, she just groaned."

Ferguson added that he was thinking Mrs. Deadwyler would deliver en route.

But asked if he saw the fire engine that Mrs. Deadwyler had described in her testimony, he responded: "I didn't see any."

Throughout his testimony Ferguson nervously shouted answers before Provenzano had completed his questions.

At one point he refused to say how much he had been drinking before the "outing." His refusal was on the advice of attorney Johnnie L. Cochran Jr., who is representing him and the widow.

Cochran, two years out of law school, has drawn out other witnesses with finely honed questions, posed through Provenzano in an unusual relaxation of normal inquest procedure. Not until the examination of Ferguson had Cochran ever appeared less than composed; as Tuesday's hearing ended he seemed nervous.

mate" in large measure to the "regressive taxation" needed to support state welfare programs.

AGAIN, IN defending his proposals for $245 million in budget cuts, which he said would still leave the new budget with a $200-million increase over the last one, he asked rhetorically, "If unemployment is at a six-year-low in California, why (the need for) $88.5 million higher welfare cost?" This includes, he said, $69 million more in mental hospital costs over the past four years while there are 6,000 fewer people in them.

Reagan said deserving welfare recipients should get not only the necessities of life but some of the comforts as well, but that he opposes misuses of welfare, the third-generation welfare families and the "paid vacation—welfare as a way of life" abuses.

The badly managed unemployment insurance program, he said, would mean "the cupboard is bare" for legitimately out-of-work persons if the state were to suffer a recession because the fund is paying out more than is coming in.

ASKED, in a question session, what he would do about crime, Reagan said he would give priority to reintroduction of anti-crime bills authored by Long Beach Assemblyman George Deukmejian, passed by the last Legislature, but pocket vetoed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown. He said the biggest single factor working against better crime control is the state's interpretation of preemption—preventing local ordinances in certain areas of crime-fighting.

Reagan told cheering hundreds at the Lakewood Shopping Center he would have an open and public inquiry into misconduct on the Berkeley campus. He told them he had evidence of "blatant sexual misconduct" in connection with a Viet Nam Day Committee dance in the men's gym there, details of which "would read like pornographic literature." The inquiry should fix responsibility, he said, and those responsible should be separated from the university.

A FEW MINUTES later, after an hour of testimony and arguments, the hearing was recessed for 10 minutes with the hint the district attorney's office might produce a surprise witness.

Instead, however, Ferguson

Troops Rout Protesters in S. Viet Nam Capital

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of anti-government demonstrators scattered before riot police and paratroopers in Saigon today after the mayor banned a threatened Buddhist protest "march of peace." The Buddhist leadership bowed to the ban.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's crackdown on his opponents also paid dividends elsewhere. The commander of the rebellious 1st Army Division in Hue said his affirmation of loyalty to Ky Tuesday also included the thousands of troops under him.

Brig. Gen. Phan Xuan Nghan told Associated Press correspondent Bob Gassaway in Hue that his men had returned to their posts and were no longer helping armed youths of the Buddhist struggle movement man roadblocks in the northern city.

THE U.S. vice consul in Hue, James R. Bullington of Chattanooga, Tenn., said Nghan was considering "appropriate action" on the barricades which were erected last week to stop any troops that Ky might send into the city.

Deputy Premier Lt. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co reported in Da Nang that two top military leaders in the revolt there had surrendered to the government and were flown to Saigon for interrogation. He identified them as Lt. Col. Dam Quang Yue and Maj. Ton That Tuong, both commanders of rebel troops in the Tinh Hoi Pagoda, which fell Monday.

Several persons were injured and a number of Buddhist monks and nuns were arrested in Saigon as police moved on the demonstrators with tear gas in one of the heaviest downpours of the year.

THE PARATROOPS set up positions on streets. Many units were armed with machine guns.

Ky's opponents demonstrated peacefully in three other cities, including the northern Buddhist stronghold of Hue, while government supporters rallied in another.

Although the political crisis kept many government troops out of the field, a government spokesman said Vietnameses soldiers killed 58 Viet Cong in five ground actions Tuesday, including a heavy Communist attack on the central coast that failed to dislodge the outnumbered defenders.

WHILE FIGHTING remained at a low level generally, the U.S. Command disclosed a new sweep operation by the U. S. 173rd Airborne Division and the Royal Australian regiment in the jungles 40 miles southeast of Saigon. So far 20 Viet Cong have been killed in the nine-day operation.

American forces reported killing 29 Viet Cong in two other continuing operations.

U.S. jets flew 24 missions against North Viet Nam, including an attack on the Red River Valley rail line to Red China. The number of missions was again far below the average before the monsoon rains curbed the air war against the north.

THE U.S. MILITARY Command had ordered all Americans off Saigon's streets this afternoon in anticipation of trouble during the scheduled march from the Buddhist Institute, focal point of past disorders.

Some 2,000 Buddhist followers tried to crash through the barbed wire around the institute but were driven off by a police tear gas barrage.

Saigon's Mayor Van Van Cua banned the demonstration and ordered his police to pick up any monks on the streets for identification at city hall. Leaders of the Buddhist Institute agreed to this procedure, saying they had authorized no demonstrations today.

BEFORE Ferguson took the stand, policewoman Barbara Johnson told of questioning Mrs. Deadwyler at County General Hospital several hours after the shooting.

The policewoman said Mrs. Deadwyler had told her of sending her husband for beer shortly before the "outing."

At the time of the interrogation, the policewoman noted, Mrs. Deadwyler's breath smelled of an alcoholic beverage.

"I don't believe she was drunk, but I believe she was under the influence of alcohol," the policewoman said.

POLICE OFFICERS and other witnesses have time and again contradicted each other in testimony about the shooting.

Deadwyler was shot by Officer Jerold M. Bova, 23, who has said, although not yet under oath, that his gun discharged accidentally and fatally wounded Deadwyler when the man's car suddenly lurched after Bova reached in to grab the ignition keys.

Mrs. Deadwyler, though, gave a different version in her testimony Tuesday.

She said after a police car had pulled alongside while her husband was driving her to General Hospital, in the mistaken belief she was in labor, "My husband motioned to the policeman because he saw a place (to stop) at the side. We stopped them. They didn't stop us."

Today, Mrs. Deadwyler sat quietly in the audience listening to Ferguson's testimony and his voice on tape.

Deer Bagged Near Lingerie Section

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A white-tailed deer leaped through the window of a department store Tuesday and wrecked several displays.

Police Sgt. Dale Grills and conservation agent Donald Hastings used a tranquilizer gun to bring the deer down just past the lingerie section. The deer was taken to a veterinarian for treatment of cuts received when it jumped through the plate glass window.

Hastings said he would release the deer in a wooded area near Alton. The animal apparently wandered into the city from that area.

Damage was estimated at several hundred dollars.

tial majority of the voters of my state."

Morse, who has said that if Duncan won he would vote for Hatfield, added:

ALTHOUGH Duncan is winning the Democratic primary, the combined vote for Gov. Hatfield and Howard Morgan predicts the election of Hatfield to the Senate in November.

"I am satisfied that by November the American people in state after state will stop President's Johnson's bullets in Viet Nam with ballots in the United States. A continued escalation by the United States of the immoral and illegal war in Viet Nam is a sin against humanity."

There was no immediate comment from the White House.

Duncan, a two-term congressman, and Morgan, a former member of the Federal Power Commission, stood together on domestic matters. They argued only about Viet Nam. Morgan called U.S. involvement there a tragic error; Duncan said it is necessary.

THEIR CLASH echoed the debate that has raged in Congress and on campuses across the nation. But in Oregon, for the first time, the voters judged the debaters.

With 1,437 of 2,946 Oregon precincts reporting, Duncan had 64% of the votes, Morgan 33% and a third candidate 3%.

Voters rendered their judgments in primary elections in Florida, Oklahoma and Kentucky, too. The most startling decision was Miami Mayor Robert King High's rematch triumph over Florida's Gov. Haydon Burns.

In other major races: Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky won renomination without serious opposition. John Young Brown, a college classmate, former congressman and Senate rival 20 years ago, easily won the Democratic Senate nomination.

—Preston Moore of Oklahoma City, former national American Legion commander, blunted the comeback bid of former Gov. Raymond Gary and won the Democratic nomination for governor of Oklahoma. State Sen. Dewey Bartlett of Tulsa won the Republican gubernatorial nomination over John N. Happy Camp.

—Republican Pat J. Patterson outdistanced Don Kin-kaid, who had solicited John Birch Society backing, for the nomination to challenge Oklahoma's Democratic Sen. Fred R. Harris in November.

—Former Rep. M. G. Snyder of Kentucky was nominated for the House from the newly designed 4th District, topping two rivals in a race that renewed the Republican split of 1964. Snyder, a conservative, fought for the cause of Barry Goldwater two years ago and lost his House seat in the Democratic landslide. Moderate and liberal Republicans, in power in the Louisville area, lined up against Snyder, calling him an extremist. Snyder won easily. He faces State Sen. John Mo-loney of Covington in November.

—Secretary of State Tom McCall won the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Oregon; State Treasurer Robert Straub was the Democratic choice.

said, because his license number had been taken.

Albee, who works as an inspector at an aircraft factory, soon arrived. At no time could he see Bunn or his son, he said, but the voices of both carried clearly out of the woods.

Policeman Joseph Nocera of Bristol was hit in the midsection by a blast from Bunn's shotgun. His condition was reported later as satisfactory.

Police, using a powered megaphone, kept urging the man to come out and give himself up or at least set the boy free.

Bunn answered numerous times, refusing to give up. But finally, Albee said, he called out, "You bring me up a quart of water and I'll give you the boy."

THE BOY also had been shouting to the posse.

"I can't come out," he cried. "I'll be shot."

Albee, meanwhile, was hurrying to a nearby home for the water.

Wilfred Morin, a dog warden known to Bunn, was chosen by the abductor to be the intermediary in the swap.

"Willie, you come up alone," Bunn called.

Morin started up into the woods, carrying the water and calling to Bunn to reveal where he was.

A short time later, Morin and the youngster came back out.

ALBEE SAID he and the youngster had been reunited only a few moments when he heard a shot and then a police officer's shout: "All right, close in!"

Moments later, he said, there were several more shots. Then silence.

Capt. Thomas O'Brien, a state police officer, said Bunn was shot by Sgt. Stanley Barton of the Bristol Police Department.

Bunn was concealed behind a hastily erected barricade of rocks on the wooded hillside, O'Brien said, but Barton was able to get to a higher point behind him and called down to Bunn to surrender.

Bunn replied by shooting at the sergeant and then Barton fired on him, O'Brien said.

"a crippling blow to the users of electronic devices designed to circumvent toll charges on long distance telephone calls."

An FBI spokesman said the "blue box" — technically known as a multifrequency signal generator — cuts out the telephone company when a long distance call is placed in a manner similar to what happens when a long distance caller gets a busy signal or no answer. Thus there is no record of the call, no possibility of tracing it, and no bill which could be used by gambling investigators.

A 17th man is ready for arrest. Dr. Milton Birnbaum of Los Angeles was charged with fraud by wire, the FBI said, and was to surrender to federal officials today.
