South rises again

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)

The South's forest-based industries have made a dramatic comeback in the last decade, and by the year 2000 the region will provide more than half the nation's wood products, according to the Southern Forest Products Association.

The South now accounts for two-thirds of U.S. pulpwood production and 30 per cent of the country's total plywood output, the Association reported. Southern Pine lumber production in 1972 amounted to 8.3 billion feet, enough to build about half of the two million housing units expected to be built in the United States this year, it added.
